Market commentary

Market review. Illustrative text for the demonstration package: global equities fell modestly over the month as investors weighed slower earnings growth against easing inflation. Defensive sectors held up better than cyclicals, and volatility rose from low levels before settling in the final week.

> Portfolio activity. We added to two healthcare holdings on weakness, trimmed a technology position after strong gains, and kept cash close to the 2.5% target. The overweight in technology and healthcare and the underweight in energy and financials were unchanged.
>
> Outlook. We continue to favour companies with resilient margins and strong balance sheets, and expect dispersion between sectors to remain high. The portfolio stays fully invested with a moderate active risk budget.

Performance commentary

- In October 2026, the A USD share class returned -0.51% net of fees, ahead of the benchmark (-1.04%; +0.53 pp). Year to date the class is +15.5% against +10.3% for the benchmark.
- On a holdings basis (gross, before fees and intra-month trading), the portfolio returned -0.39%. Sector allocation contributed +0.20 pp and stock selection +0.30 pp (interaction +0.15 pp); selection was the main driver this month.
- By sector, Technology added the most (+0.24 pp) and Utilities detracted the most (-0.08 pp).
- Largest contributors: Technology Synth 2 (+0.58 pp), Healthcare Synth 2 (+0.44 pp), Technology Synth 3 (+0.36 pp). Largest detractors: Healthcare Synth 1 (-0.39 pp), Consumer Synth 1 (-0.20 pp), Industrials Synth 2 (-0.16 pp).
- Fund assets were USD 1.14bn at month-end, after net inflows of USD 12.8m and an investment result of -USD 5.5m.

Drafted from the computed figures; reviewed by the analyst and the portfolio manager before release.

Methodology

This report tells how the fund did and why. The steps, formulas and references are in the methodology document. One thing helps when reading on: returns are net of fees unless a table says otherwise.

Limitations and assumptions

- Returns are as published by the administrator; ProQuant reconciles them but does not re-price the portfolio.
- Attribution is holdings-based (month-end snapshots, buy-and-hold within the month). Intra-month trades, fees and cash flows are not attributed to sectors; they appear in the gross-to-net line.
- Risk statistics use 36 monthly returns at most; shorter histories give less reliable estimates.
- The risk-free rate is a constant 3.0% a year for the whole window.
- Market commentary is the portfolio manager's opinion and is not verified by ProQuant.
- Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results.
- This demonstration uses synthetic data; its numbers have no meaning for any real fund.
